

Mambo was ready at the door when I arrived, but thankfully he stayed in with the help of my shuffling feet and the pets he immediately received. After lots of cuddles and loves, he traveled outside to watch squirrels and sniff around. He was so happy that he made biscuits as I carried him back inside!

Once inside, I gave him his rounded scoop of cooked meat with a teaspoon of the salmon mixed in, as well as a freshly filled bowl of water. His litterbox was scooped as he ate. I also noticed a spot on the carpet and it smelled like pee. I was able to get it up and use a spot cleaner, but if you have a carpet deodorizer of some kind, please let me know and I will be happy to treat the spot.

Mambo came up the stairs and cried as he must've been checking if anyone was there. I let him know that I was here, though I had to leave soon, and he ran up to me for more pets. He truly is such a love! ☺ I am already eager to visit again later today and I hope that he, as well as you and Sully, have an amazing day!
